

ACCELERATOR Expedition

Interaction Associates Partners with Pachamama Alliance

The collaboration between Interaction Associates and the Pachamama Alliance provides a unique opportunity to develop your leaders. Together, we combine expertise in global leadership development and in bridging cultures and working for sustainability. The result is an immersion experience that encourages transformation and rapid learning.

ABOUT INTERACTION ASSOCIATES

Interaction Associates, Inc. is a 40-year-old global performance improvement company that develops more effective leaders, teams, and individuals. We draw upon deep experience in strategic thinking, collaboration, team building, group facilitation, instructional design, and experiential learning to create management and leadership development programs for some of the best-run companies in the world. Through delivering world-class executive development, we help Fortune 500 companies maximize their strategic advantage and generate sustained business results. Leaders who participate in our development programs emerge with an extraordinary set of models, tools and skills that significantly increase their probability of success. Our strategic focus is on collaborative capabilities, and our tools are practical and actionable for immediate results.

TRANSFORMATIONAL LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

Interaction Associates is expert at developing next-generation leaders capable of addressing global challenges with social and economic innovations. We specialize in developing leaders who possess a high collaborative intelligence, who can build strong alliances and cooperate across economic, cultural, geographic boundaries—and even competitor boundaries. These are the leaders who can reap the benefits, for all stakeholders, of sustainable, integrated business practices.

ABOUT PACHAMAMA ALLIANCE

The Pachamama Alliance is a San Francisco-based organization working at the critical crossroads of social innovation and sustainability.

The Pachamama Alliance has thirteen years of expertise in core competencies critical to the development of leaders today. Those competencies include innovative capitalism, systems thinking, sustainability, interconnectedness, stakeholder collaboration, and active listening.

The not-for-profit's mission is two-fold: to preserve the earth's tropical rainforests by empowering the indigenous people who are its natural custodians; and to contribute to the creation of a new global vision of equity and sustainability for all.

As a leading expert at collaborating with indigenous populations, Pachamama works primarily with the Achuar tribe — an indigenous group of approximately 3,500 people occupying nearly 2 million acres of pristine tropical rainforest in the Amazon basin of southeastern Ecuador.

Pachamama believes that meeting humanity's challenges depends on our ability to successfully combine the best elements of the intellectual and scientific prowess of the modern world with the deep and ancient wisdom of traditional cultures.

The Pachamama Alliance's work takes place in two distinct program areas: social and economic development projects in the South, and education and awareness building in the North.

The organization has extensive experience leading business executives on transformational journeys to the rainforest. The Pachamama Alliance also has a track record of building collaboration among vastly different stakeholders, including the Ecuadorian government, global industry, and the indigenous community.

Social Innovators
use new models
and technologies
to achieve systemic breakthroughs and address significant challenges.

